PROTECTIVE ORDER

In conjunction with the Order,⁴ it is ORDERED by the Court that RSU Claims Discovery conducted in accordance with the Order shall be conducted subject to the following terms and provisions set forth in this Protective Order; that all documents, deposition testimony, interrogatory answers, and other information produced, given, provided or exchanged in connection with RSU Claims Discovery (the “Discovery Materials”) and/or the Participants (collectively, “Producing Parties”) shall be and are subject to this Protective Order in accordance with the following procedures, pursuant to sections 105(a) and 107(b) of title 11 of the United States Code (the “Bankruptcy Code”) and Bankruptcy Rule 9018, to protect the confidentiality of sensitive information; and that, by signing the Agreement to Abide by the Protective Order, signatories (each a “Signatory”) have consented to this Protective Order and agree to be bound by its terms:

1. Any Producing Party or Receiving Party (defined in paragraphs 10-12 below) may, as reasonably appropriate, designate any Discovery Material as “Confidential” in accordance with the terms below. A party who designates Discovery Material as “Confidential” is a “Designating Party.” Where the Receiving Party is also the Designating Party, the confidentiality obligations of the Receiving Party set forth in this Protective Order shall be the obligations of the Producing Party.

2. All documents produced that are not designated “Confidential” at the time of production shall be treated as Confidential under this Protective Order for 14 days following the production of such documents, after which only the documents designated “Confidential” shall be treated as such.

Confidential Information

3. As used in this Protective Order, “Confidential Information” refers to all Discovery Material revealed or produced by a Producing Party (whether in response to a Document Request, Interrogatory, Request for Admissions, Deposition, other discovery device or otherwise) that is designated as “Confidential.” This designation will, without more, subject the designated material or information to the provisions of this Protective Order; and such Confidential Information will be protected by, and may be used and disposed of only in accordance with, the provisions of this Protective Order.

4. Any Producing Party may designate any Discovery Material as “Confidential” under the terms of this Protective Order if the Producing Party in good faith reasonably believes that the Discovery Material contains confidential, proprietary or commercially sensitive non-public information that requires the protections provided in this Protective Order. For purposes of this Protective Order, Confidential Information includes, but is not limited to all non-public materials containing information related, but not limited, to: (i) financial or business plans, projections or valuations; (ii) proposed strategic transactions and other business combinations, negotiations, inquiries or agreements, including, but not limited to, joint ventures, mergers, material asset sales, purchases, buy-outs, consolidations, transfers of interests and partnerships; (iii) studies or analyses by internal or outside experts or consultants; (iv) financial or accounting results or data; (v) business, management and marketing plans and strategies; (vi) acquisition offers and expressions of interest; (vii) contracts or agreements with or among affiliates, partners or Producing Parties; and (viii) personal information that may cause an individual, whether affiliated with a Producing Party or a Receiving Party, to be exposed to an unreasonable risk of identity theft, such as social security numbers, bank account numbers, dates of birth, drivers' license numbers, or passport numbers.

Designation of Deposition and Hearing Testimony

5. Any Producing Party may designate a document as "Confidential" by affixing the legend "Confidential" to each page requiring the protections provided in this Protective Order in addition to an appropriate bates-stamp designation indicating the Producing Party.

6. For transcripts of depositions or other testimony given in pretrial proceedings, any Producing Party may designate the specific testimony as "Confidential" either on the record at the deposition or other proceeding, or in writing served on all parties no later than seven (7) days following the date on which attorneys for the Producing Parties have received the final version of the transcript of the deposition or other proceeding. If information designated as Confidential will be disclosed or discussed at a deposition, the Designating Party shall have the right to exclude any person not entitled to have access to such information, other than the deponent or witness, the attorney(s) of record (including their staff and associates), official court reporter, and stenographer and/or videographer.

7. All documents, including pleadings, motions and other papers, containing, identifying, or referencing Confidential Information filed with the Court shall be filed under seal, simultaneously with a redacted public copy of such pleadings, motions, and/or other papers, redacting only the information that is designated “Confidential.” Any Receiving Party intending to use Confidential Information at any hearing in connection with the RSU Claims agrees to meet and confer in good faith with the Designating Party about the appropriate steps that may be taken to protect the confidentiality of such material, including, but not limited to, agreeing to redact such Confidential Information. Such meeting shall take place as soon as reasonably practicable, but no later than the date of the hearing at which the document will be used.

8. All transcripts not previously designated as “Confidential” shall be treated as “Confidential” under this Protective Order for the seven (7)-day period following receipt of the final version of the transcript and exhibits by attorneys for the Producing Parties, after which time only the portions specifically designated as “Confidential” pursuant to Paragraph 4 of this Protective Order shall be so treated.

9. The court reporter shall bind transcript pages containing Confidential Information separately and shall prominently affix the legend “Confidential” to each appropriate page, as instructed by the Designating Party.

Access to Confidential Information

10. Receiving Parties shall permit access to Confidential Information only to persons specified in this Protective Order. For purposes of this Protective Order, the term “Receiving Party” shall be a party to whom Discovery Materials are produced, and may be either an RSU Claimant, LBHI, an affiliate of LBHI, or any person identified below in Paragraphs 11 and 12 of this Protective Order who receives Confidential Information from a Receiving Party as permitted by this Protective Order.

11. Confidential Information may be disclosed, summarized, described, characterized or otherwise communicated or made available in whole or in part by a Receiving Party only to the following persons:

- a. Outside attorneys of record, attorneys or accountants serving as a trustee, curator or other fiduciary of an affiliate of LBHI, attorneys working with LBHI and its affiliates in connection with the RSU Claims, and those in-house attorneys who represent the Receiving Party in matters related to the RSU Claims, as well as attorneys, clerical, paralegal, other staff and agents of those employed by or working with such attorneys or accountants whose functions require access to Confidential Information;
- b. Any person indicated on the face of a document to be the author, addressee, or an actual or intended recipient of the document;
- c. Outside experts, consultants, and/or financial advisors for the Receiving Party whose advice and consultation are being or will be used by the Receiving Party in connection with the RSU Claims, as well as stenographic and clerical employees and agents of those experts or consultants whose functions require access to Confidential Information; provided that counsel desiring to disclose Confidential Information to such experts or consultants and their employees or agents shall first obtain a signed Agreement to Abide by the Protective Order from each such expert or consultant and each of his/her personnel who would require access to Confidential Information, and counsel shall retain in his/her file an original or copy of each such signed Agreement to Abide by the Protective Order;

- d. The Court and its authorized staff, including official and freelance court reporters and videotape operators hired by the Receiving Party;
- e. Officers, directors or employees of the Receiving Party and its affiliates who are assisting the Receiving Party's attorneys with matters related to the RSU Claims;
- f. To the extent not otherwise covered by this Section, any potential witness or deponent and counsel for such witness or deponent, during the course of any testimony, including at any deposition, hearing or trial, and to the extent necessary, during any preparation for such testimony relating to the RSU Claims. Except when the Confidential Information is first exhibited at a deposition, hearing or trial to such person(s), counsel desiring to disclose Confidential Information to such persons shall (i) first obtain a signed Agreement to Abide by the Protective Order, and such counsel shall retain a copy of each executed Agreement to Abide by the Protective Order; or (ii) represent on the record at the deposition, hearing, or trial that such person(s) have read and agreed to the Agreement to Abide by the Protective Order;
- g. Professional vendors to whom disclosure is reasonably necessary for RSU Claims Discovery, provided they are informed that the material is Confidential Information;

- h. Any other person upon agreement among LBHI, the Participants, the Designating Party, and/or the Receiving Party, provided that such person shall first execute the Agreement to Abide by the Protective Order, a copy of which shall be retained by counsel for both Parties; and
- i. Any other person, only upon order of the Court.

12. Access to Protected Material: Only persons authorized to receive Confidential Information under this Protective Order shall have access to such material.

Receiving Parties shall not provide access to or disclose Confidential Information to any person not authorized to access such material under this Protective Order. Receiving Parties shall store all Confidential Information that they receive in a secure manner. Receiving Parties are barred from using Confidential Information except in connection with the RSU Claims and only for the purposes permitted by the Protective Order and the Order. If Confidential Information is disclosed to any person other than in a manner authorized by this Protective Order, the disclosing party shall, immediately upon learning of such disclosure, inform the Designating Party of all pertinent facts relating to such disclosure and shall make reasonable efforts to retrieve the Confidential Information and to prevent disclosure by each unauthorized person who received such information.

13. No Restrictions on Use of Public or Own Information: Notwithstanding any other provision of this Protective Order, this Protective Order does not restrict in any way a Participant's or non-Participant's use of:

- a. Its own information or its right to provide such information to any other person, even if others have designated similar or identical information as Confidential Information. A person's use or disclosure of its own information shall not waive the protections of this Protective Order, and shall not entitle any Participant or non-Participant to use or disclose such Discovery Materials, or the contents thereof, in violation of this Protective Order, unless such disclosure of a person's own information causes the Confidential Information to become available to the public;

- b. Information that is in the public domain or becomes public without violation of this Protective Order; and
- c. Information that a Participant or non-Participant develops or obtains through proper means without violation of this Protective Order.

Use of Discovery Materials

14. Receiving Parties shall use Confidential Information produced during RSU Claims Discovery only for matters related to the RSU Claims or in other contested matters or adversary proceedings between LBHI and an RSU Claimant arising out of these Chapter 11 cases. Confidential Information shall not be made public by any Receiving Party, shall be used only by persons permitted access to it as provided for in this Protective Order, and shall be disclosed only to persons specified herein.

15. Nothing herein shall prevent disclosure beyond the terms of this Protective Order if the Designating Party specifically consents in advance in writing to such disclosure, or if the Court, after notice to all parties, orders such disclosure.

Inadvertent Failure to Designate

16. An inadvertent failure to designate qualified information disclosed or otherwise produced or generated by a Producing Party as "Confidential" does not waive the Producing Party's right thereafter to designate Discovery Material as "Confidential" under this Protective Order unless such information has become available to the public. Upon receipt of such designation, each Receiving Party must make reasonable efforts to ensure that the material is treated in accordance with the provisions of this Protective Order. The Designating Party shall promptly produce new copies of the material at issue, with the proper designation, after which Receiving Parties shall promptly destroy the copies with the improper designation and shall request that all persons to whom the Receiving Party has provided copies do likewise. The Receiving Party shall inform the Designating Party when destruction of such copies has been completed.

Non-Waiver of Privilege

17. Nothing in this Protective Order shall preclude any objection to the disclosure of information by a Producing Party on the ground that such information is protected or prohibited from disclosure by the attorney-client privilege, the joint client privilege, the community of interest privilege, the work-product immunity, or any other legally cognizable privilege, immunity or protecting including without limitation any applicable U.S. or foreign data privacy laws. If information protected or prohibited from disclosure is inadvertently or mistakenly produced, such production shall in no way prejudice or otherwise constitute a waiver of, or estoppel as to, any claim of privilege or work-product immunity for such information or any other information that may be protected from disclosure by the attorney-client privilege, the work-product immunity, or any other legally cognizable privilege or protection. If a Producing Party has inadvertently or mistakenly produced Discovery Material that contains information protected or prohibited from disclosure, then upon request by the Producing Party after the discovery of such inadvertent or mistaken production, the Receiving Party shall use all commercially reasonable efforts to return or destroy the Discovery Material for which a claim of inadvertent production is made and all copies of it, including any work product containing, identifying, or referencing such Discovery Material, within seven (7) days of such request, and the Receiving Party shall not use such Discovery Material for any purpose other than in connection with a motion to compel production of the Discovery Material. The Receiving Party returning such Discovery Material may then move the Court for an order compelling production of the Discovery Material, but that motion shall not assert as a ground for entering such an order the fact or circumstance of the inadvertent production of the Discovery Material.

Relief

18. This Protective Order shall not prevent any party from applying to the Court for relief therefrom, or from applying to the Court for further or additional protective orders.

19. Nothing in this Protective Order shall prevent any Signatory from producing documents received subject to this Protective Order and that are in his, her or its possession, to another person in response to a subpoena or other compulsory process. Unless prohibited from doing so by applicable law, prompt written notice as soon as practicable under the circumstances shall be given to the Designating Party before production or other disclosure is to be made. The party producing the documents subject to this Protective Order shall reasonably cooperate with the Designating Party to obtain an appropriate protective order or other reliable assurance that confidential treatment will be accorded to the Confidential Information being produced.

Objections to Designations

20. If any Receiving Party objects to the designation of any Discovery Material as “Confidential,” the Receiving Party shall first identify the specific material as to which it objects as well as the basis for the objection in writing to the Designating Party. Such parties shall confer in good faith to attempt to resolve any dispute regarding any such designation. If such parties are unable to resolve such dispute, the objecting party may seek appropriate relief from the Court, in accordance with Paragraph 18 of this Protective Order; provided, however, that all Discovery Material to which the objection applies shall continue to be treated by Receiving Parties as Confidential Information, as designated by the Designating Party, in accordance with this Protective Order, until such objection is resolved. No Signatory shall contest an objecting party's request for reasonably expedited consideration for such relief.

Appeal

21. In the event that any Signatory appeals from any decision of the Court relating to RSU Claims Discovery, such Signatory shall file an application to the appropriate appellate court, within seven (7) days of the filing of the notice of appeal, to maintain under seal any Discovery Material filed with the appellate court that contains or discloses Confidential Information. The provisions of this paragraph may be waived only with the written consent of the Designating Party.

Scope of Protective Order

22. In the event that any Confidential Information is used in any court proceeding relating to the RSU Claims, that material shall not lose its status as Confidential Information through such use and such use shall remain subject to the terms of this Protective Order.

23. Nothing in his Protective Order shall require any Producing Party to respond to discovery in any manner, including by producing documents, that would cause such Producing Party to violate any statute, regulation, or rule, including, without limitation, any international or foreign privacy laws, to which such Producing Party is subject.

24. This Protective Order does not alter, modify, or expand any obligation or duty of any party to produce any Confidential Information.

25. Nothing herein shall be construed to affect in any way the admissibility of any document, testimony, or other evidence at the trial of any action relating to the RSU Claims.

Modification

26. No modification of this Protective Order shall be binding or enforceable unless in writing and signed by LBHI and the Participants, or by further order of the Court.

Choice of Law

27. This Protective Order shall be governed and construed in accordance with the laws of the State of New York.

Jurisdiction

28. The Court shall retain jurisdiction over any matters related to or arising from the implementation of the Protective Order.
